

VISITING CONGRESS TODAY:

HEROES OF THE NEXT RECOVERY

But blocking a real clean energy bill will kill the jobs they're working to create

Look out in the hallway. You'll see hundreds of businesspeople from all over the country here to ask Congress to pass a clean energy bill with a limit on carbon pollution. Their businesses are ready to hire new workers and spark an American renewal, but they can't do it without leadership from Washington. When Congress passes a limit on carbon pollution, it will create demand for thousands of American products, from steel for wind turbines to LED lights. And a bill that has a limit on carbon emissions creates five times as many jobs as an energy-only bill.¹
